

TOWER '69
MANHATTANVILLE COLLEGE
PURCHASE, NEW YORK 10577

In truth it is life that gives unto life —
while you, who deem yourself a giver, are but a witness . . .

For life is timeless.

And the timelessness in you is aware of life's timelessness.

And the timelessness in you knows that yesterday is but today's memory and tomorrow, today's dream.

Speak to us of Giving.

And as timeless time is measureless and immeasurable,

so with giving,

so with life.

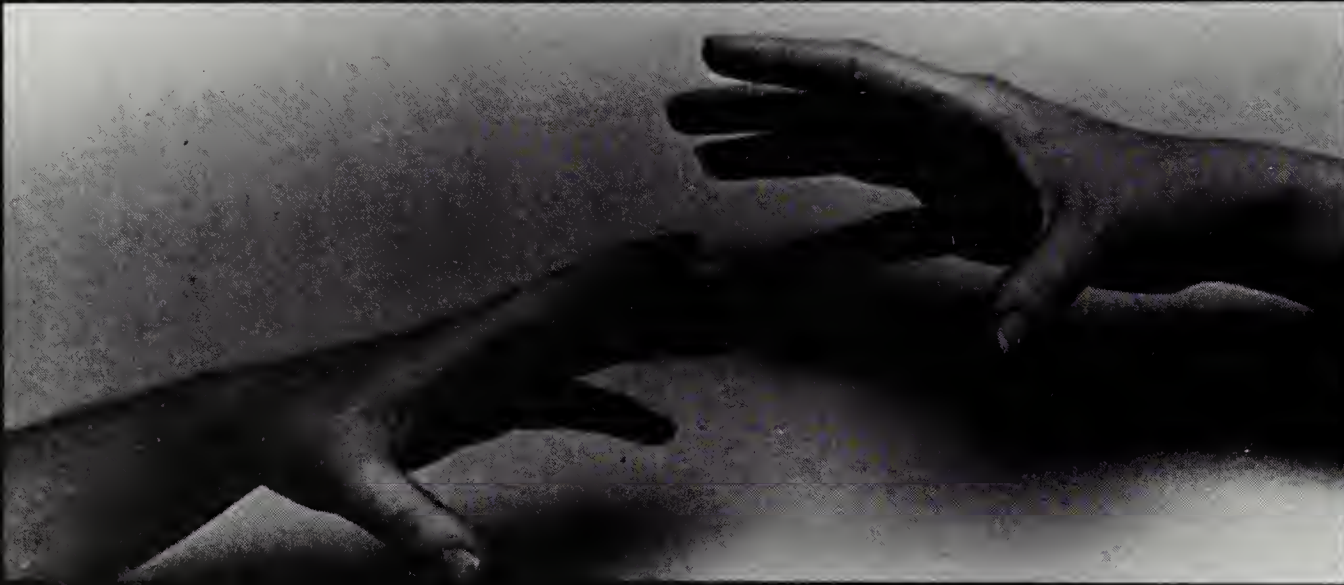

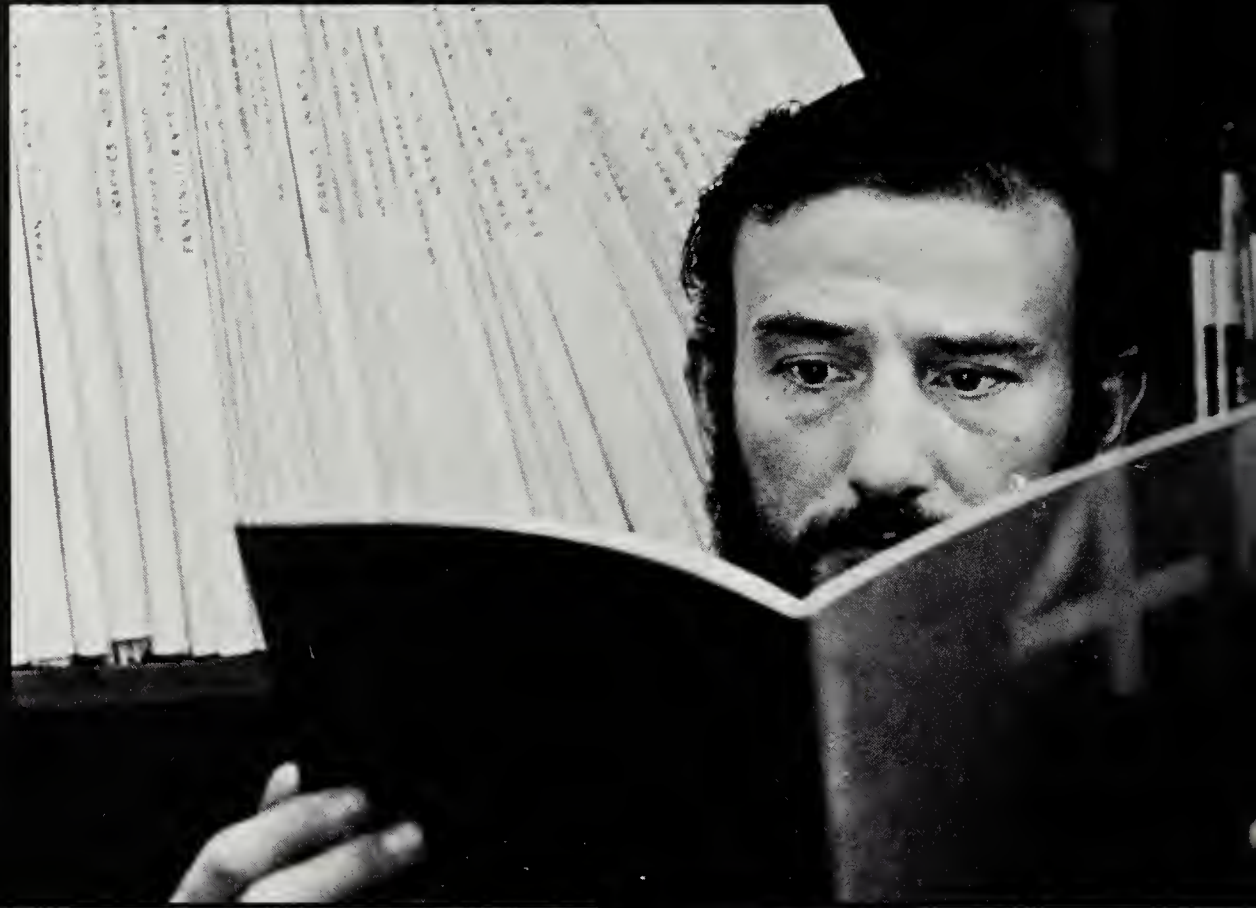

So with unity,

so with war.

Give

as in yonder valley the myrtle breathes its fragrance into space.

Search as the vine.

And to the open handed
this search for the one who shall receive will be joy greater than giving.

And is there aught you would withhold.

Deep is your longing for the land of your memories and the dwelling place of your greater desires;
And our love would not bind you nor our needs hold you.

We, the Class of 1969, dedicate this yearbook to a dear friend and a great professor who taught us by his example to confront things with honesty, with a full heart, without fear.

He could not be content with counterfeit
With masquerade of thought, with hapless words
That must belie the racking masquerade.

—Wallace Stevens

JAMES TERRY PLUNKETT

We are the seeds of the tenacious plant
And it is in our ripeness and our fullness
Of heart that we are given to the wind and are scattered.

He who does not act learns little and remains alone. In action is encounter and companionship; in action is courage and change.
The individual is only enhanced as he acts in community with other individuals.

To co-act, to act with another, requires an ability to give the best of one's self and to receive the gift of another's self. Should not education teach us to receive from the past, act in the present, and give to the future? Should not living teach us to give courageously and to receive generously another's gift?

"Love is like that, you know, creating and transforming both the beloved and the lover."

Let us be brave to accept another's gift gladly;

Let us act full with life, gladly, to give.

To give or receive realistically it is necessary to recognize the absolute personal independence of all involved. Otherwise, giving becomes self-sacrifice and receiving becomes humiliation

There was a king reigned in the East:
 There, when Kings will sit to feast,
 They get their fill before they think
 With poisoned meat and poisoned drink.
 He gathered all that springs to birth
 From the many-venomed earth;
 From a little, thence to more,
 He sampled all her killing store;
 And easy, smiling, seasoned sound,
 Sate the king when healths went round.
 They put arsenic in his meat
 And stared aghast to watch him eat;
 They poured strychnine in his cup
 And shook to see him drink it up:
 They shook, they stared as white's their shirt:
 Them it was their poison hurt.
 — I tell the tale that I heard told.
 Mithradated, he died old.

Men must realize that they do not live isolated from their fellow beings. Their independence is an essential aspect of existence and survival. As Albert Einstein once said, peace cannot be kept by force; it can only be achieved through understanding.

Are not "to give" and "to receive" concepts proper to the Hellenic intellectual tradition and to the ego-morality which it sustained? Was it not that tradition & its companion morality which, in the agonies of the 19th & 20th centuries, the West has begun, not to repudiate, but to transcend? To share the enterprise & the achievement, the possibility and the impossibility, the condition itself, — is this not a conceptual approximation now more apt? No longer "to" & "for" but "with".
